

AIA Connecticut 2011 Emerging Architectural Firm Award

The 2011 Emerging Architectural Firm Award is a biennial peer recognition award highlighting AIA Connecticut members who are gaining recognition through a body of built work and are committed to design excellence.

Jurors: Peg Chambers, AIA, MJ Chambers Architect, LLC, Hamden; Joseph Ferrucci, AIA, Joseph P. Ferrucci Associates, LLC; Craig Newick, AIA, Newick Architects, LLC New Haven; and Leonard (Trip) Wyeth, Wyeth Architects, LLC, Chester

Amanda Martocchio Architecture + Design, LLC, New Canaan, CT

Amanda Martocchio Architecture + Design, LLC strives to create innovative work that is responsive to a project's unique context. The firm embraces the principles of "Houses that Work"™ and is committed to staying on top of current thinking in building science. It strives to produce work that is noteworthy in its clarity of form and rigorous detailing, expressed with a varying palette of materials.

Jury comments: The work is well done and incredibly well thought out. Massing and proportion are perfect, with dead-on detailing. The body of work is consistent, coherent and well-conceived.

Pool House, New Canaan, CT

Photographer: Michael Moran Photography, Inc.

AIA Connecticut 2011 Emerging Architectural Firm Award

Amanda Martocchio Architecture + Design, LLC, New Canaan, CT

Westchester Waterfront, Rye, NY

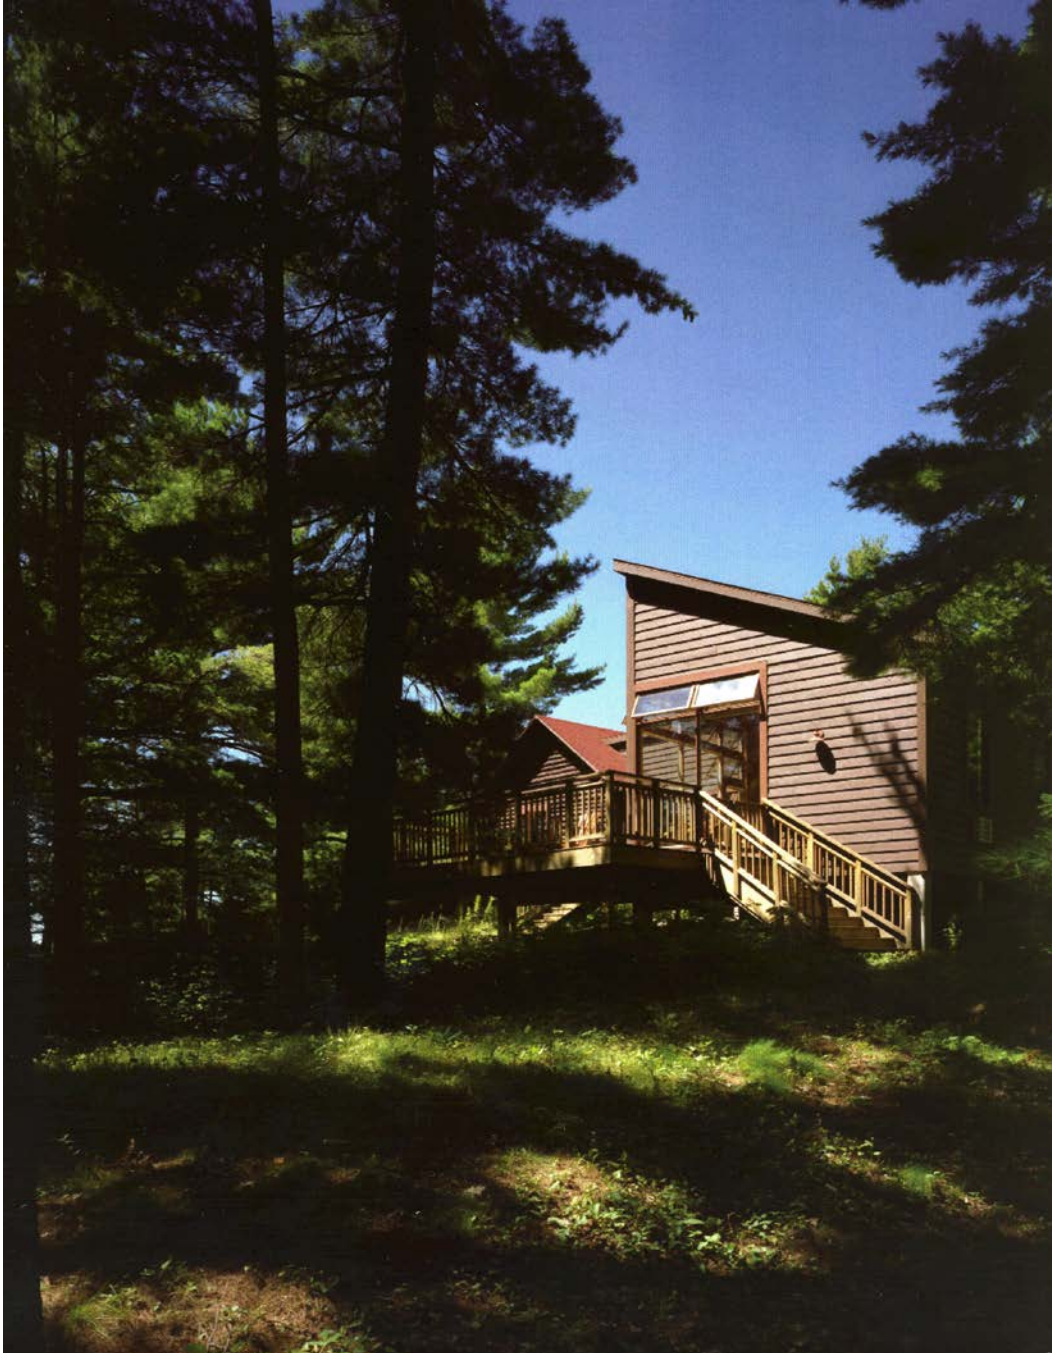

Photographer: Michael Moran Photography, Inc.

AIA Connecticut 2011 Emerging Architectural Firm Award

Amanda Martocchio Architecture + Design, LLC, New Canaan, CT

Lakeside Addition, Kabshe Lake, Ontario, Canada

Photographer: A-Frame Photography, Ben Rahn